Substance Use Disorders and Treatment Among Jail Populations

Resources for Corrections Personnel

In November 2019, the Bureau of Justice Assistance convened a Jail Practitioner Roundtable on Opioid-Related Training Needs to gather input from jail practitioners and stakeholders on training products and resources for managing the well-being of inmates with opioid use disorder (OUD) or substance use disorders (SUDs).

Of the many topics discussed, participants specifically identified a significant need among corrections officers and other staff members for:

- ◀ Foundational training on SUDs/OUD
- ◀ Education on withdrawal management in custody and medication-assisted treatment \(MAT\)
- ◀ Information on the unique services and linkages that people with SUDs/OUD need as they reenter the community

In response, Advocates for Human Potential, Inc.—a COSSAP national training and technical assistance provider—compiled the following resource list for distribution to COSSAP grantees and other stakeholders through the COSSAP Resource Center website, email lists, professional associations, and other distribution lists. Unless otherwise indicated, all resources listed are available free of charge electronically.
